Utah-Apex and Utah Metal Have Ample Ores in Reserve.

E. P. Jennings, consulting engineer, who has just returned from an inspection of the Utah-Apex and Utah Metal Mining company's property at Bingham, reports that the Utah-Apex has ample ores in reserve, and as soon as this development work is completed the mill will be started up again, which should be in about 90 days. The mill was treating 150 tons a day, and turn-was treating 150 tons a day, and turning out about 40 tons of high grade silver-lead concentrates.

"There are three new ore bodies just touched, and are now being developed. One is on the bottom level, one on the seventh level and one on the fourth level. The lowest workings on the Utah-Apex is 800 feet below the outcrops. Most of the rich ores are found in bedded contacts between the quartzite and lime,

"No. 1 tunnel, on the Utah Metal

"No. 1 tunnel, on the Utah Metal Mining company's property, is now in 4,000 feet, and is making at the rate of 11 feet a day. The entire distance has been through hard quartzite. As is generally known, the object is to reach the ore-bearing property owned by the company on the Bingham side of the hill, which embraces the Bingham Central Standard, owned by the Utah Metal company. This tunnel will give depths varying from 300 to 1,000 feet on the prospected veins, which show silver, lead and copper. The tunnel, when completed, will be 11,000 feet long." ### CACTUS SLUMP SAID TO BE CURB SCANDAL

Rock Bottom Reached on Boston Market at Eighteen Cents a Share -Once Seven Dollars.

Cactus at 18 cents per share! says J. G. Templeton in the Copper Curb and Mining Outlook. Has the bottom been reached, or will it break through this mark and go still lower? At one time it looked as if there was no bottom and that it would follow the careers of such stocks as Massachusetts Coal & Power and National Mining Exploration and sell down below 10 cents. But the sponsors for the stock evidently have t pegged at rising 20 cents, and from present apearances are taking all stock offered around that quotation.

One broker, in speaking of the stock and its possible market future, said to me a short time ago: "You can put it it down as a fact that the house which put it out is buying it in. The stock is being thrown on the market by the small stockholders and this, of course, signifies that it is the public, and the certificates are passing into the hands of the stock exchange houses. The curb boys don't keep them, and the public is selling, not buying. What is the logical conclusion?

"Of course, the house aforesaid may be buying the stock as a matter of public spirit, since it foisted the stock on the public, following its success with Lake Copper, but it's a safe bet that they are not so charitably inclined, and for that reason I have decided to take me a short time ago: "You can put it they are not so charitably inclined, and for that reason I have decided to take a filer in the stock for my personal account. The stock even at its present price, hardly discounts the showing of its Pinto shaft, and the Hamilton is worth something. Then again, it is supposed to have a large treasury surplus, and plenty of good will. I of course assume that the stories regarding this so-called surplus are correct. The stock, however, is largely a gamble."

This caused me to ask a few ques-tions around the street and the boys seem to be of the opinion that the tions around the street and the boys seem to be of the opinion that the large treasury account is made up of a lot of bills receivable, etc., which in the main are of little account, so that it is now doubted if the Cactus Copper company has much more than $70,000 to $80,000 instead of the $102,000 reported. Such a state of affairs is to be deplored and it is hardly likely that the firm which put it out with a couple of other flasces to account for, will be so readily followed into the market in the future. Even its success with Lake Copper may be lost sight of in the light of what has happened to Cactus and one or two more such fizzles.

It does not follow that every time a firm takes charge of a proposition that it insures immediate success. But it does seem that the insiders should have given out the exact status of the company's affairs before the grand slump took place. To make the statements public after the stock has slid backward from $7$ to around $1$ is bad enough. But the sinking of the stock down to 18 cents is puzzling the brokers, who fail to see why the stock should touch so low a level, even with the issuance of the poor report regarding ore deposits. Yet, like all such events, they are mysterious and many things in connection with them are unevents, they are mysterious and many things in connection with them are un-explainable. But talking from what actually has transpired and sizing up the looks of the market for the stock, Cactus appears a mighty good gamble at around current figures.

L. A. Friedman, general manager of Seven Troughs Coalition came in yes-terday with some exceedingly rich samples, one showing as high as $447, 609 values. Mr. Friedman reports that from 10 to 20 tons a day of ore is being taken out from Coalition ground with values averaging $50, a ton. On with values averaging $60 a ton. What promises to be one of the biggest mines in the great camp of National is being opened on the property owned by J. S. McLaughlin and associates just south of Radiator hill, on what is known as Three Mile creek, says the Humboldt Star. While the discovery was made some time ago, the news of this wonderful disclosure of discovery was made some time ago, the news of this wonderful disclosure of ore was not made public until a few days ago when Mr. McLaughlin told a representative of The Star of the immense body of ore uncovered in his property in the bonanza camp.

In speaking of the great showing Mr. McLaughlin stated that in a tunnel which has penetrated the mountain about 140 feet, he has crosscut a ledge that is 40 feet wide and has the appearance of making into one of the biggest mines yet found in the state. The ore is not of the bonanza kind that has made the camp of National famous, but is of a high milling grade and in such quantity that it insures the stability of the camp for years to come. So far the immense ledge has been cut at only 30 feet depth, but it is strong and has every appearance of being a permanent ore body of great magnitude.

Mr. McLaughlin stated that when the big ledge was first encountered the

Mr. McLaughlin stated that when Mr. McLaughlin stated that when the big ledge was first encountered the vein matter assayed $5.70 per ton, but a few feet further the values increased to $28.25 to the ton. Samples taken across the full width of the ledge gave the astonishing average of almost $15 per ton. Not only were several samples tested at National and Winnemucca, but Mr. McLaughlin says that he had a number of tests made at Denver and all gave results that have satisfied the owners that they have the making of a wonderful mine.

Mr. McLaughlin has lately returned from Kansas City, Mo., where he went

He says that he has arranged to thoroughly open the property on an extensive scale with the intention of creeting a mill in the near future. The property in which the big ledge has been disclosed is known as the Nevada State group of claims and is at least two and a half miles south of Charleston hill in a heretofore undeveloped section of the great camp.

IMPORTANT STRIKE IN ALTA.

An important strike is said to have been made in the Cardiff property at Alta which is largely owned by Ezra Thompson and James D. Murdoch. No Thompson and James D. Murdoch. No details have been received but it is stated that a small amount of ore encountered some time ago has widened out into two feet in the face of the drift off the tunnel level and has been followed for a distance of 92 feet. It now has a width of four feet and is believed to be very rich. The Cardiff is next the Rexall group owned by Salt Lake people and on the east is Columbus Extension. It is thought the Cardiff has the continuation of the Cardiff has the continuation of the Columbus ore channel, the first uncovered in the Consolidated property.

New York, Nov. 15 .- The opening stock market toay showed strength and animation, a brisk demand carrying prices up-wards throughout the list. Union Pacific was a conspicuous feature with opening pared with 176i last night. Its gain was sales of 3,500 shares at 177 and 1773, compared with 1764 last night. Its gain was afterwards extended to 2 points. American Smelting rose 13. American Cotton Oil 13 and Reading 18. St. Paul, New York Central, Amalgamated Copper, Western Union and Pittsburg Cool a point and U. S. Steel, Chesapeake & Ohio and several others large fractions. Canadian Pacific started 18 lower.

The buying continued brisk for a half hour and then slackened. None of the important stocks made any substantial additions to their opening gains but neither did they fall off to any extent when the rise ceased.

People's Gas declined a point and Wells-Fargo Express 5.

Strength and activity were confined to so few stocks that traders were suspicious. Reaction followed under profitaking. The advance was unexplained by news and was largely in response to the declared intention of operators to put prices up. The casing money market and the favorable October foreign trade were helpful factors. The Hill stocks were heavy on earnings comparisons. Great Northern preferred feh a point under last night. The other Pacifics, were also under pressure. American Brake Shoe declined 18.

Honds were easy.

Aside from a further slight droop in prices there was nothing of interest to the market. Delaware & Hudson advanced 18.

the market. Delaware & Hudson advanced 11.
While there was very little stock sold, prices continued to work lower and some stocks ruled below yesterday's closing. The market closed irregular and dull. In the last half hour U. S. Steel, Union Pacific and Reading were bid up again, the last named rising 2 over last night's closing. The general list showed itself indifferent. Tennessee Copper and Erie second preferred rose 2. Kansas City Southern preferred and American Wool preferred 12, Rock Island preferred 23. The Texas company declined 14.

BOSTON.

Boston, Nov. 15.—Heavy shipments of wool and big volume of trading continue in the wool market, values holding firm. Boston wool merchants generally believe that the election results will have no effect on the market.

It is certain that schedule K of the late tariff bill, which applies to wool, cannot be changed so as to affect the present clip. A good demand for half-blood fleeces is reported and 30 cents is said to have been paid for Ohio, with Michigan at 29c.

Heavy transfers have also been made in Montana clothing at 60 cents on a scoured basis.

The best fine staple is quoted at 65c. Pulled wool is moving fairly well with 52 to 56c. for A supers.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Unfavorable crop reports from Argentina, France and Great britain gave an upward jerk to wheat today. Lack of rain was mentioned as the trouble in Argentina, where moisture is needed for the growing grain, especially in the southern part of the country. In the United Kingdom, and in France, on the other hand, heavy rains were said to 5.3 a serious source of delay to seeding. Sellers, however, took some courage from the fact that the visible supply of wheat in Europe showed an increase of 1,382,000 busilels.

The opening here was 1@$ higher. May started at 964 to $1 a rise of $1$ to $2$, reacted to $62$ and then railled to 962.

Possibility of unsettled weather strengthened corn but the effect was only temporary. May opened a shade to $60.

In the oats pit a waiting attitude was maintained both as to trading and prices. May started unchanged to a shade up at $24 ft $2$ to 34$ and then touched 34$.

Owing to a decline in quotations for live hogs, provisions were easier. First sales showed a decline of a saide to 7$, with the January option at 17.50 pork; 10,25 to 19.27$ for lard, and $2,27$ for ribs.
